Your work stays sealed until you're paid.

Sealed lets freelancers get paid without the chase, and lets clients pay without the fear. The client pays into a PayPal hold, reviews protected previews of the work, and approves to release payment and unlock the files. AI plans the milestones and checks every delivery against what was agreed.

WHAT WE STAND FOR

Fair to both sides

Every rule protects the freelancer and the client equally. Neither side ever has to trust blindly.

Calm about money

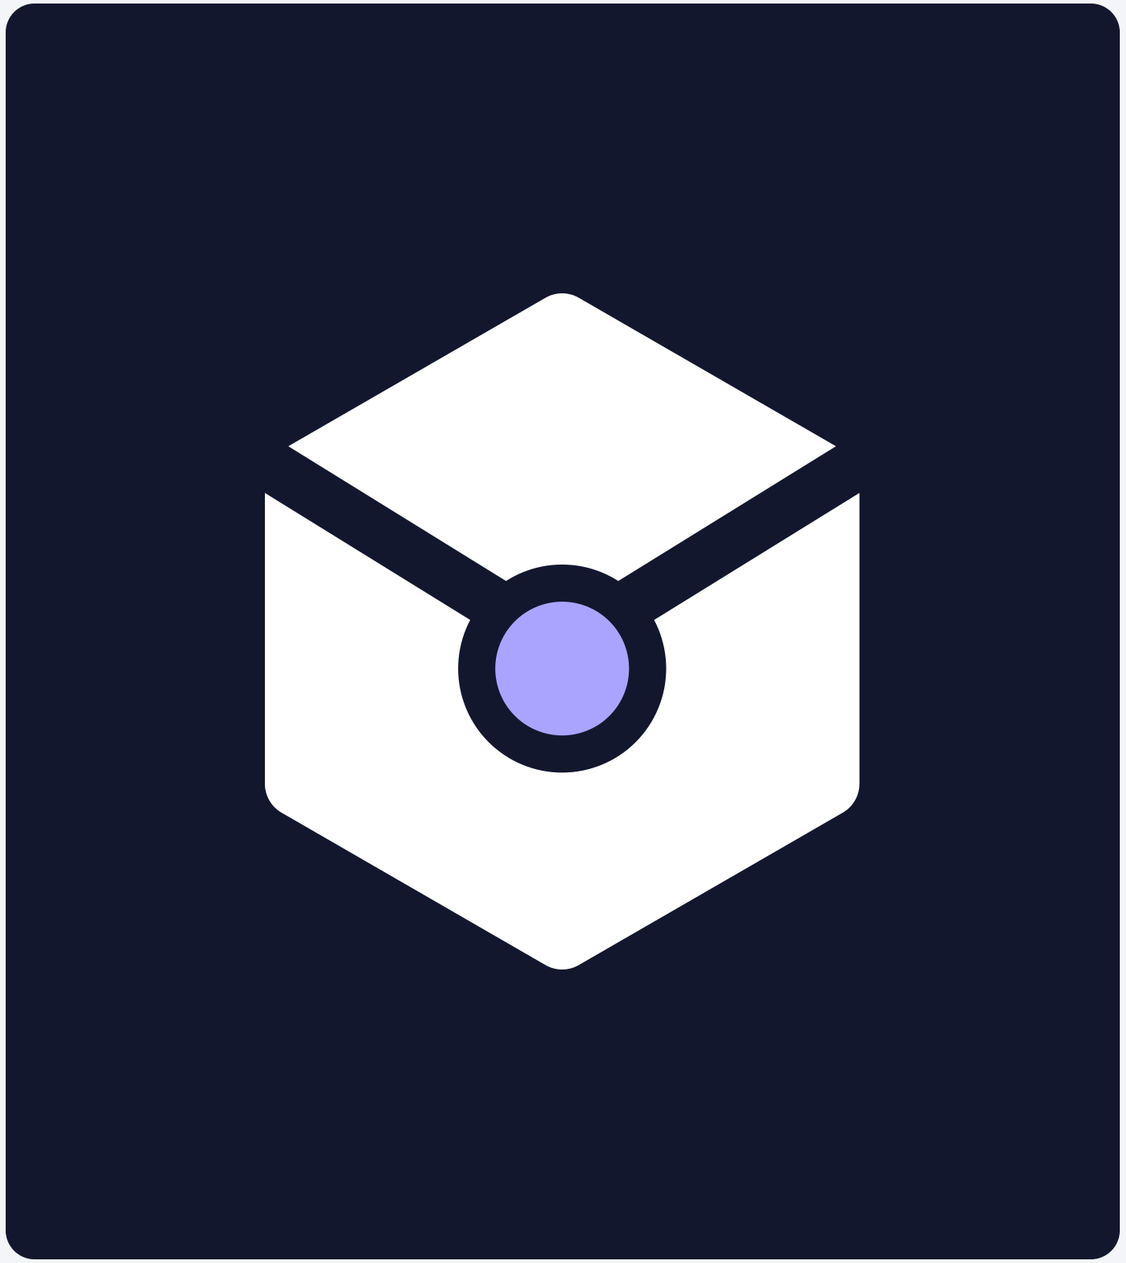

Money is stressful. Sealed is quiet, clear and exact, never loud or salesy.

Plain-spoken

We say what happens, when, and to whose money. No jargon, no small print.

Quietly smart

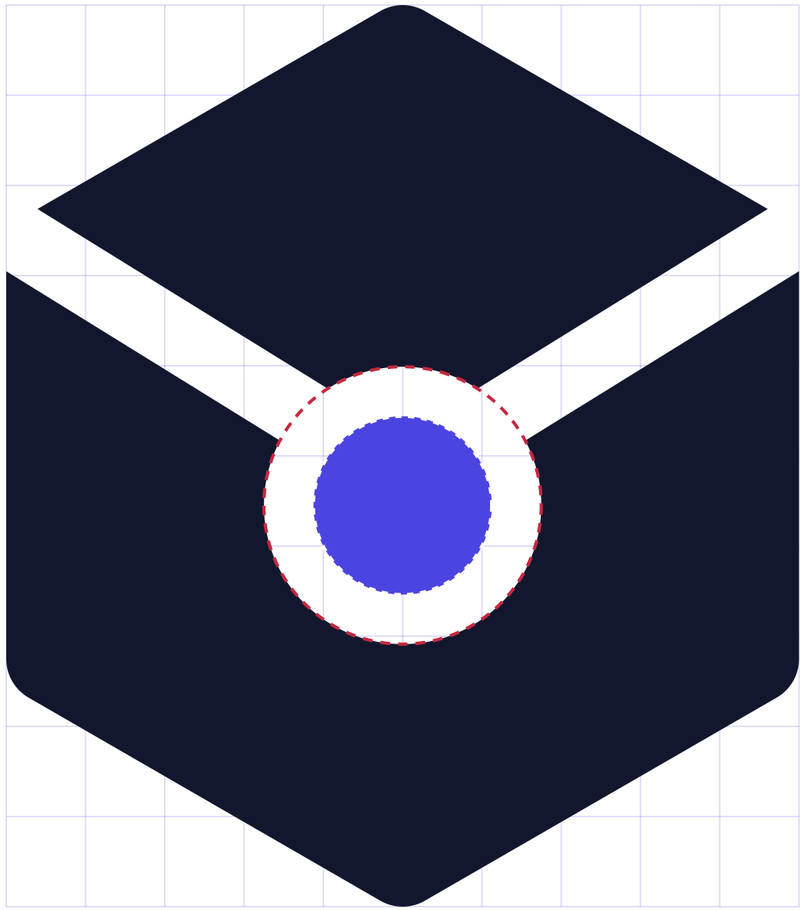

AI does real work in the background and shows its reasoning. It never shows off.

The Fold

An envelope, folded into a hexagon and closed with a seal where the flap meets.

- The hexagon is a container: a box built to keep something safe. Delivered work lives inside it.
- The fold is the envelope flap. It tells you something has been delivered and closed.
- The seal sits where the flap meets. It is the one place Seal colour appears, and the part that “breaks” when payment is released.
- Together: delivered, sealed, waiting for approval. It is the whole product in one shape.

GEOMETRY

- A regular, point-up hexagon with softly rounded corners (corner radius 11% of the hexagon's radius).
- The fold follows the slope of the top edges and is cut 7.7% of the mark's height wide.
- The seal is a circle on the centre line, set inside a ring of clear space. Its diameter is the unit x: one fifth of the mark's height.

CLEAR SPACE

Keep at least x clear on every side of any logo. Nothing else (text, edges, other logos) enters that space.

MINIMUM SIZE

LOGO	SCREEN	PRINT
Mark	16 px tall	5 mm
Horizontal lockup	96 px wide	25 mm wide
Stacked lockup	64 px wide	18 mm wide

Horizontal is the primary logo. Use it whenever there is room: the app header, the website, documents, the demo video.

Stacked for square or tall spaces: posters, social posts, splash screens.

Mark alone where the name is already present or space is tight: app icon, favicon, avatars, loading states.

The wordmark alone is for rare cases where the mark appears nearby, such as a footer under a product screen. It is set in Public Sans at weight 750 with −2.8% tracking, then outlined. Never retype it.

Primary. Night with a Seal dot. The default on white and Paper.

Reverse. White with a Seal Light dot, on Night and dark photos.

Seal. For brand moments on light backgrounds. Night dot.

On Seal. White with a Night dot, for Seal backgrounds.

Mono Night. One colour, for print, fax-grade documents and engraving.

Mono White. One colour on dark or busy backgrounds.

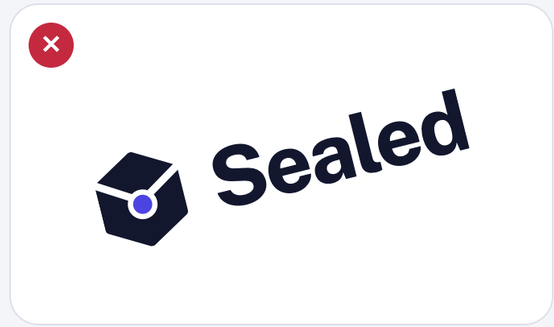

Please don’t

Stretch or squash the logo.

Recolour the seal. It is Seal (or Seal Light) only.

Rotate or tilt it.

Retype the name in another font.

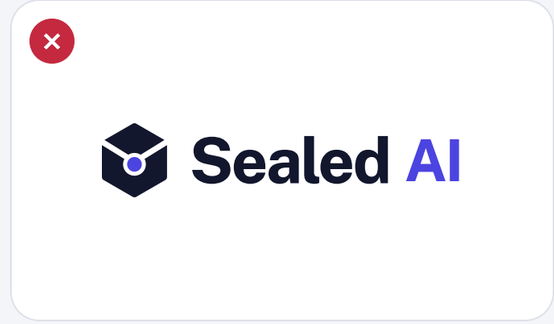

Add shadows, glows, bevels or gradients.

Put the primary logo on low-contrast colours.

Rearrange the mark and wordmark.

Add “AI” or other words to the logo. The name is Sealed.

Mostly Paper. A little Seal.

About 60% Paper and Sheet · 28% Night · 8% Seal · 4% money states

- Seal is the brand. One Seal action per view: the thing we want you to do next.
- Money colours mean money. Green, gold and red only describe the state of a payment, never decoration.
- Gold is PayPal's hold. Striped gold shows money that PayPal is holding. It echoes PayPal's own button on purpose.
- Red is for risk only. Cancelling, overdue, errors. Never for a main action.

RULES

- Serif for names and titles, sans for everything else. Never set body text in Young Serif.
- Sentence case everywhere: titles, buttons, labels. Capitals only for short overlines.
- Money is always Public Sans with tabular figures, so columns of amounts line up.
- Body text at 16–19px with 1.5 line height. Keep lines under about 70 characters.
- Two weights per view is usually enough: Regular and SemiBold.

HOW THE BRAND SHOWS UP

- Header: the horizontal logo at 28–32px tall, top left, on Sheet. The mark alone on screens under 400px wide.
- Client portal: the freelancer's name leads, with the small Sealed mark beside it. Sealed is the trusted middle, not the star.
- Seal colour marks the next step: Pay into hold, Approve, the notification count, AI results.
- Release moment: when payment is released the seal dot opens and turns green. This is the one celebratory animation.
- Surfaces: Paper page, Sheet cards with 14px corners and a soft shadow. Hairline Rule borders, never heavy outlines.
- Pop-ups, not alerts. Confirmations and updates open in Sealed's own dialog, and the page behind it doesn't scroll.

Line icons, drawn on a 24px grid

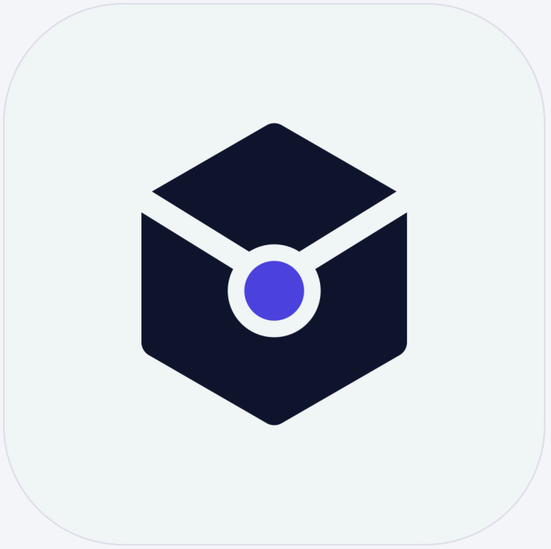

- 1.75px stroke, rounded caps and joins, no fills (except the hold dot).
- Night on light surfaces, white on Night. Seal only when the icon is the action.
- Sizes: 16, 18, 20 and 24px. Never scale the stroke with the icon.
- Pair an icon with a label wherever space allows. Icon-only buttons need an accessible name.
- Hold (lock) and release (open lock) are the core pair. Use them for money states only.

Primary app icon. Night tile, white mark, Seal Light dot.

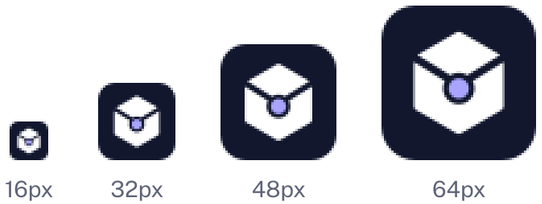

Alternate for Seal backgrounds and campaigns.

Light alternate for light-mode launchers.

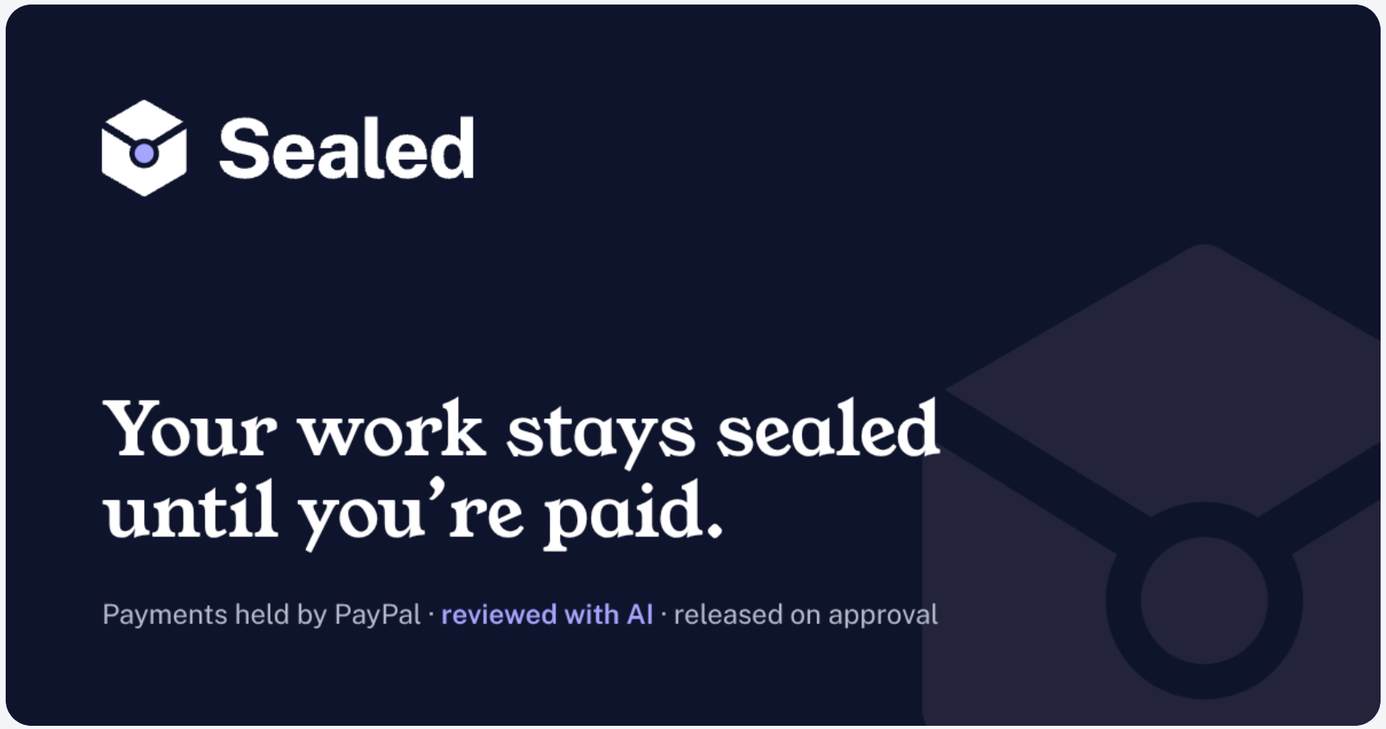

Android maskable icon: the mark sits inside the safe circle.

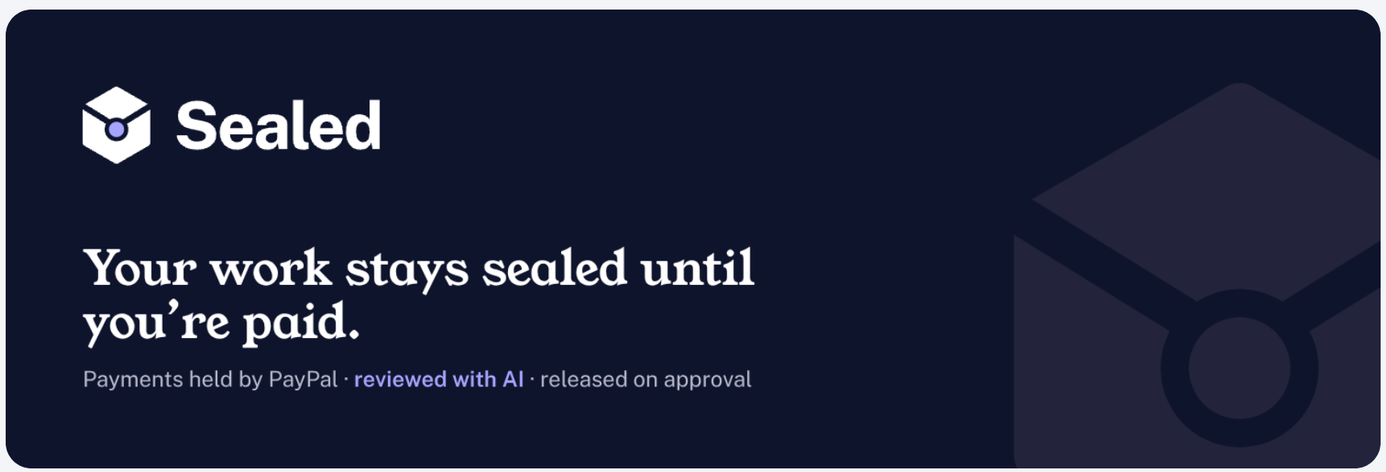

Favicons use the Night tile so they stay visible on light and dark browser tabs. The SVG favicon switches to a white mark in dark mode.

SOCIAL RULES

- Lead with the line, not the logo: “Your work stays sealed until you’re paid.”
- Night backgrounds, white type, one Seal Light accent.
- Show the real product: screens of a held payment, a check, a release.

Say what happens to the money.

- Plain. Short sentences, everyday words. “Held”, not “escrowed”.
- Exact. Name the amount, the person and the date.
- Even-handed. Write so both the freelancer and the client feel protected.
- Calm. No exclamation marks around money, no urgency tricks.
- Sealed is always one word with a capital S. Never “Sealed AI” or “SEALED”.
